Last Call for Ladies Nights

*Girls, y'all got one
A night that's special everywhere
From New York to Hollywood
It's ladies night and girl
the feeling's good
Kool & The Gang*

A 70's disco classic and the focus of an Iowa Supreme Court decision, 'Ladies Night' vanished as quickly as it had appeared. Bar promotions based on gender were outlawed in Iowa by the 1989 decision.

Recently, however, 'Ladies Night' specials, promotions that offer women free or discounted alcoholic drinks or admission, reappeared in bar and nightclub promotions after an extended absence.

The resurgence was brought to the Iowa Alcoholic Beverages Commission's attention this past spring. The Commission was informed that such specials "encourage high risk drinking by women." And, the Commission was told that the promotions are "used to attract men to a particular bar or club, based on the premise that there will be more women under the influence of alcohol at these establishments."

In Ladd v. Iowa West Racing Association, the Iowa Supreme Court held that a ladies' day promotion at Bluffs Run greyhound track in Council Bluffs, in which women were given free admission and discounted prices on concessions, was patronizing to women, discriminatory to men and contrary to law. The Iowa Civil Rights Act makes it an unfair and discriminatory practice to discriminate against any person based on "race, creed, color, sex, national origin, religion or disability" in any public accommodation.

'Ladies Night' promotions, at first glance, appear innocent and innocuous. Licensees certainly have a legitimate right to promote their establishments. After all, the liquor business can be very competitive in nature. But as Justice Snell wrote in the 1989 decision, no "meaningful line can be drawn on that ground," nor does a "de minimis exception for prohibited discrimination" exist in the law.

The Commission went on to approve a plan to notify licensees of the ban prior to imposing any sanctions. Having done that, effective August 1, any establishment that continues to offer such promotions will be subject to administrative action against their license or permit, as well as subject to a civil rights claim. The violation could result in a civil fine, suspension, revocation or non-renewal of a license or permit.

The 'Ladies Night' ban applies equally to any gender-based promotion. For instance, licensees have been informed that they cannot offer a special for women one evening and a discount for men the next. Iowa's Civil Rights Act does not create an exception for "Equal Opportunity" discriminators.

Equally, licensed establishments cannot 'skirt' around the ban by offering gender-based promotion, such as 'Skirt Night,' 'Lipstick Night,' or 'High-Heels Night.' Any such gender-based promotions will be treated as infractions.

And, as always, licensees are encouraged to promote their establishment without promoting irresponsible consumption. Be creative, be responsible and be successful! Alas, leave 'Ladies Night,' like disco itself, back in the 70's.

Good Luck!

ROCKS!

Vodka again proves itself reigning champion of spirits.

By Michael Sherer, a Seattle-based writer and consultant specializing in beverages and foodservice

Note: The following excerpt is printed with permission from the July/August 2001 issue of StateWays—the Beverage Alcohol Merchandising Magazine for Control States.

It's good to be king, and vodka is certainly king of the spirits world.

"Vodka continues to see strong growth," said Joanne Klelecka, group marketing director at Allied Domecq Spirits USA, which markets Stolichnaya. "One of every four cocktails consumed is made with vodka, which really demonstrates its mixability and versatility."

While it's nice to be part of a leading industry segment, the competition among the crown princes in the category has become increasingly intense. The category itself is undergoing dynamic change, which in some cases involves upheaval and shifts in the winds of fortune.

"It seems vodka, as the largest industry sector, has really come alive in the past three or four years, due to imports, superpremiums and ultra-premiums, and flavors," said Scott Reid, brand director of Finlandia Vodka. "The whole category seemed to have utility in the past for people who wanted mixability. More recently, the category has seen image associated with brands come alive. Smaller brands are riding that wave of imagery and aspiration much like single-malt Scotch."

“TO A DEGREE, IMAGE IS A FACTOR, BUT PEOPLE REALLY HAVE DEVELOPED A PALATE FOR HIGH-QUALITY PRODUCTS. BETTER QUALITY SPIRITS ARE GOING TO MAKE BETTER QUALITY COCKTAILS.”

Shifts in the category support the long-held notion that consumers are drinking less, but better. The domestic vodka category, for example, grew less than 1 percent both nationally and in control states [in 2000-01]. Sales of the top 10 domestic brands in control states actually declined 0.1 percent in the year that ended March 31 [2001]. Combined sales of the top 30 domestic brands nationally declined by the same amount.

Within the segment, however, individual brand performance tells part of the story. Premium brands are seeing brand share erode in favor of both more expensive and less costly brands. Volume of bestseller Smirnoff was off 5.7 percent in control states, for example, giving it a 13.6 percent of the domestic vodka market. On the other hand, sales of Burnett's, from Heaven Hill, rose 22.3 percent. And sales of superpremium Skyy Vodka rose 25 percent, pushing it to ninth on the bestseller list in control states.

Skyy, in fact, bolstered by striking packaging and advertising, grew almost 33 percent nationally last year to more than a million cases. [In 2001] the brand [had] five new executions of its “cinematic moments” print ads. Off-premise promotional materials [dovetailed] with the campaign. Retailers [saw] case cards and other materials based on two of the ads, which [were] reminiscent of movie scenes.

Another high-end domestic brand was repositioned to take advantage of the category shifts. Rain Vodka, marketed by Sazerac, has doubled its sales since being repackaged a year ago in a raindrop-shaped clear bottle. Made with organically grown grain and limestone water, Rain is quadruple-distilled. The heads and tails are cut from each distillation for a smoother product. The brand is concentrating on education and trial (where legal).

IMPORT ACTION

The real category growth, however, is in the imported vodka segment. Imported vodka sales rose 14.9 percent in control states, . . . an even stronger showing than the 14.4 percent growth nationally. High-end products with intriguing packaging and a story to tell about the product and its heritage are getting tremendous buzz in on-premise accounts. That, in turn, has the fancy bottles flying off store shelves.

“The products that are being consumed are all the high-end-products,” said Bill Thompson, vice president brand development at Sidney Frank, importer of Grey Goose. “To a degree, image is a factor, but people really have developed a palate for high-quality products. Better quality spirits are going to make better quality cocktails.”

A greater degree of sophistication as consumers become more worldly and well-traveled has exposed them to new and different experiences. And what was elegant in the past, from cars to architecture, has made classic cocktails like martinis fashionable again.

“Even young adult consumers identify strongly with the image of vodka,” said Gerry Ruvo, senior vice president sales for Skyy Spirits. “Either martinis or mixed drinks gives them a lot of ways to enjoy vodka in beverages.”

“Young adult consumers are probably a bit better off than their parents at the same age,” Joanne Kletecka said. “They seem to be more mature in their drinking habits too. They value brands with substance and quality, not just in spirits, but clothes, cars, and other goods. Their palates are more refined. They're out there to enjoy the products they purchase.”

The growth in interest and sales of imported vodka can probably be traced back more than a dozen years to the efforts of Absolut. The brand's distinctive, award-winning ads and association with the arts helped give vodka a whole new image. At the same time, Absolut educated consumers about its heritage and how a superpremium vodka should be made. That education process has helped make consumers more discerning.

“Consumers continue to look for quality products and information on quality products,” said Jim Schleifer, marketing director for Absolut at Seagram Americas. “We’ve got a tremendous story in our quality message, which we communicate on our package and elsewhere. It’s part of why we’re seeing growth in the brand and the category.”

Absolut, which has nearly a 45 percent share of the imported vodka market in control states, has put more emphasis on that quality message in its ads . . . the emphasis is on the “Absolut Splash” merchandising program, featuring drink recipes and special point-of-sale [materials]. The brand also has added a new dimension to its Web site that lets consumers edit their own movies using vintage sci-fi film clips.

Stolichnaya, which also rose to prominence here based on its authentic Russian heritage, grew a healthy 4.5 percent in control states in the year that ended in March [2001]. . . . Along with new ads, the brand [was] looking at ways to reach younger consumers through promotions, sponsorships, and pr programs.

If the import segment leaders’ growth seems impressive, other vodkas in the category have seen growth explode. Grey Goose Vodka from France, for example saw sales skyrocket more than 117 percent in control states. . . . The brand is concentrating on sponsoring lots of charity events, conducting sampling, and staff training programs both on-and off-premise wherever possible, and providing drink recipes along with point-of-sale materials.

Ketel One, from the Netherlands, was up 27.9 percent [in 2000]. Introduced in 1992, the brand has seen sales rise to more than 760,000 cases across the country. New ads that broke in June [2001] emphasize the brand’s family heritage. While the brand offers retailers an array of point-of-sale materials, including racks, bins, and shelf cards, it has relied primarily on staff education to spread the word.

Vox, imported by Jim Beam from the Netherlands, also has come out of nowhere to become a top-growing imported vodka. . . . A tie-in with Sour Apple Pucker to promote the “appletini” is helping generate buzz for the product.

FLAVORS ARE FASHIONABLE

One of the strongest growth trends in the category is the explosion of flavor vodkas. Absolut started the trend 20 years ago with Citron . . . Stoli quickly followed with flavors of its own, and the segment has slowly grown. Now flavored vodkas are all the rage.

“The consuming public is enjoying a flavor revolution,” Jim Schleifer said. “They’re experimenting and expanding their drinking repertoire, switching to easy-drinking beverages. It’s not a short-term phenomenon.”

Finlandia, the fourth-largest import brand nationally, saw sales increase 16.4 percent in control states. The brand expects that growth to continue, especially with the launch this year of Finlandia Lime . . . Since lime is used as a garnish in 8 of 10 vodka drinks, it seemed a natural fit for the brand.

“Flavors are being consumed by a younger demographic,” said Scott Reid. “They’re not a fleeting fad. They’re adding excitement and mixability to the category. Is there room in the category for all the new products? More brands and flavors are being introduced all the time. . . . “Ultra-premiums and flavors have really caught,” said Scott Reid. “I think it was time for vodka to expand into all these subcategories. I don’t think we’ll see much more segmentation, but the existing subcategories will continue to grow. Some brands may fall out as new brands are introduced, but they’re all adding nuances to the category.”

Take advantage of the trend. Be sure to stock and merchandise the brands your customers are looking for.

Tailgating Take-Alongs

Fall sporting events offer the perfect time to enjoy picnic-style meals with family and friends. Here are some recipes that will add extra spirit to these relaxed, informal get-togethers.

Whiskey-Glazed Ham

Bake the ham a day or two ahead of time and store it in the refrigerator. Slice the ham thin and serve it with a variety of breads and rolls and your favorite condiments.

*½ to 1 cup bourbon whiskey
½ to 1 cup dry red wine
1 cup brown sugar
6 bruised cloves
2 tablespoons grated orange peel
Fully cooked smoked ham, skinned*

Combine all the ingredients in a medium bowl, and spread the mixture on the ham. Bake the ham as directed on the packaging, basting during the last half-hour of cooking.

Bourbon-Flavored Marinade for Grilled Meats and Vegetables

Makes about 1 cup of marinade.

Mix the marinade ahead of time and store in the refrigerator in a large, self-sealing plastic bag. At least an hour before grilling, place your favorite meat and vegetables into the bag and let them marinate until you are ready to cook them. You can use this marinade on all kinds of meats as well as vegetables.

*¼ cup soy sauce
¼ cup bourbon
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup mustard
Dash of Worcestershire sauce
1 small onion finely chopped
1 clove garlic finely chopped*

Combine all of the ingredients in a bowl and mix well. Store the marinade in the refrigerator.

Chris Kennedy's Down-home Potato Salad

Makes about 30 servings.

3 pounds Idaho potatoes peeled and evenly quartered into bitesize pieces

*Pinch of salt
½ cup diced celery
¼ cup diced Vidalia onion
1 cup mayonnaise
¼ cup whole-grain mustard
¼ cup Dijon mustard
2 teaspoons cracked black pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon kosher salt
1 teaspoon garlic paste
Dash of paprika*

Place the potatoes in a large pot and cover with cold water; add a pinch of salt, bring to a boil, and cook until the potatoes are soft but still firm. Drain and refrigerate the cooked potatoes for 30 minutes.

Combine the celery and remaining ingredients in a large bowl; mix well. Add the cooled potatoes and mix gently.

Tailgating Tips

- ⌚ Plan menus with foods that you can prepare ahead of time and are easy to store and serve.
- ☆ Remember to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold, and chill leftovers quickly.
- 🧺 Stock a large picnic basket or other carryall with a wipe-clean tablecloth, paper napkins, a knife or two, a few serving spoons, and disposable plates, cups, and forks. Keep it handy by the backdoor or in your vehicle so you're ready to go.

Classic Cocktails

Perhaps the first cocktails were sweetened water flavored with a splash or two of bitters and a “suitable” amount of liquor drunk soon after the cock crowed in the morning. Perhaps they were libations created to “cock your tail” or “keep your spirits up” to meet the challenges of the day. Or perhaps these simple mixed drinks were first served as appetizers to help diners relax before the evening meal. Whatever their humble beginnings, over the past hundred years cocktails have enjoyed continuous popularity and now rank as classics.

If you haven’t had a chance to enjoy a classic old-fashioned, Manhattan, or martini, try the recipes below. If you prefer your drink “straight up” (without ice), pour it into a chilled glass. If you prefer it “on the rocks,” pour it over fresh ice in a chilled glass.

Classic Old-Fashioneds

Old-fashioned are traditionally served with ice in, of course, an “old-fashioned” glass—a short, usually heavy-bottomed tumbler. The taste varies depending on whether blended whiskey, rye, bourbon, Scotch, or brandy is used. Traditional garnishes include a lemon twist or a maraschino cherry plus an orange slice and a pineapple stick.

Basic Old-Fashioned

Serve in a chilled old-fashioned glass.

- 1 sugar cube
- 2-3 dashes bitters
- 1-2 splashes water or club soda
- 2-3 ounces whiskey or other liquor

Place the sugar cube in the bottom of a chilled old-fashioned glass. Pour the bitters and water or club soda over the sugar cube, and muddle (crush) the moistened cube with a wooden muddler or the back of a spoon. Add one large or several small cubes of fresh ice, and pour in the whiskey.

Basic Tips for Mixed Drinks

No matter what drink you are mixing, always use:

- clean, fresh ice. Buy small-cube cocktail (“party”) ice if you can—it is usually flavorless. If you make ice at home, rinse the cubes under cold water to minimize unwanted “freezer” flavors.
- good-quality beverage ingredients.
- sparkling-clean, chilled barware and glassware. Check for water spots. If the mixing glass, shaker, or serving glass has not been used for a week or more, wash and thoroughly rinse it to remove any musty or lingering detergent taste. Place the mixing glass, shaker, and cocktail glass in the refrigerator for at least an hour to thoroughly chill them.

Basic Manhattans

Reportedly a bartender at the Manhattan Club in New York City created the Manhattan especially for a banquet given about 1875 by Lady Randolph (Jenny) Churchill, the Brooklyn-born mother of Winston Churchill. Variations include the Dry Manhattan, which is traditionally garnished with a lemon twist, and the Perfect Manhattan, which can be garnished with either a lemon twist or a maraschino cherry.

Manhattan

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

2-2½ ounces blended whiskey
½-1 ounce sweet or dry vermouth
2-3 dashes bitters
Maraschino cherry

Fill a mixing glass half full with ice. Pour in the whiskey, vermouth, and bitters, and stir well. Strain the mixed drink into the serving glass, and garnish with the cherry.

Dry Manhattan

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

2-2½ ounces blended whiskey
½-1 ounce dry vermouth
Lemon twist

Fill a mixing glass half full with ice. Pour in the whiskey and vermouth, and stir well. Strain the mixed drink into the serving glass, and garnish with the lemon twist.

Perfect Manhattan

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

2-2½ ounces blended whiskey
½ ounce sweet vermouth
½ ounce dry vermouth
1-2 dashes bitters
Maraschino cherry or lemon twist

Fill a mixing glass half full with ice. Pour in the whiskey, sweet and dry vermouths, and bitters; stir well. Strain the mixed drink into the serving glass, and garnish with the lemon twist.

Basic Martinis

Martinis can be wet (sweet), dry, or very dry. They can be stirred or shaken and served straight up or on the rocks with an olive (with or without pimento) or onion. Start with one of the basic recipes below and adjust the ingredients and mixing method to suit your taste.

Traditional Straight-Up Martini

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

1½ ounces chilled gin
Generous dash dry vermouth
Generous dash sweet vermouth
Olive

Fill a mixing glass or shaker half full with clean ice; pour in the gin and add dashes of dry and sweet vermouth (vary the amount of vermouth depending on if you prefer a dry or wet/sweet martini). Stir or shake gently to mix and immediately strain into a chilled cocktail glass; add an olive or onion on a pick.

Traditional Straight-Up Dry Martini

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

2 ounces chilled gin
½ ounce dry vermouth
Olive

Fill a mixing glass or shaker half full with clean ice; pour in the gin and vermouth. Stir or shake gently to mix and immediately strain into a chilled cocktail glass; add an olive or onion on a pick.

Traditional Straight-Up Very Dry Martini

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

2- 2½ ounces chilled gin
Dash dry vermouth
Olive or cocktail onion

Fill a mixing glass or shaker half full with clean ice; pour in the gin and add dash of vermouth. Stir or shake gently and immediately strain into a chilled cocktail glass; add an olive or onion on a pick.

MARY ELIZABETH KIMBROUGH

Stir, Shake, or Let the Bubbles Do the Mixing

MARY ELIZABETH KIMBROUGH

- Stir rather than shake cocktails that contain “clear” ingredients to avoid making bubbles that would “cloud” the drink. The recipe as well as the drinker’s preference will determine whether a drink should be stirred gently or vigorously.
- Martinis and some other mixed drinks can be either stirred or shaken. Be sure to ask your guest’s preference before you mix the drink.
- Never stir a drink made with a carbonated beverage—stirring will dissipate the bubbles and the drink will taste flat. The bubbles in the carbonated beverage will “mix” the ingredients.

NEW YORK'S ALGONQUIN HOTEL

Famous watering holes

The elegant Algonquin Hotel has attracted prominent actors and writers ever since it opened its doors in 1902 in the heart of one of New York's most fashionable cultural centers. Its well-known guests include Douglas Fairbanks Sr., John Barrymore, Eudora Welty, Gertrude Stein, Helen Hayes, and William Faulkner.

From 1919 to about 1929 the Algonquin became the place to be at lunchtime when Dorothy Parker, George Kaufman, Robert Sherwood, Alexander Woollcott, and other literary notables gathered in the Rose Room to enjoy a meal and share ideas, opinions, and what has been described as "often-savage wit." Society columnists and critics of the time referred to this group as the Algonquin Round Table.

Undoubtedly the members of the Round Table ordered alcoholic beverages during their daily meetings. David Wondrich, author of Esquire Drinks—An Opinionated & Irreverent Guide to Drinking, suggests that "the wits of the famous Round Table" were "strictly a highball crowd . . . with the occasional martini." Perhaps they also sipped on the hotel's namesake drink, the Algonquin.

*1½-2 ounces blended or rye whiskey
½-1 ounce dry vermouth
1 ounce pineapple juice*

Pour all of the ingredients into a mixing glass or shaker half-filled with cracked ice; stir or shake to mix. Strain the mixed drink into a chilled cocktail glass over fresh ice, if desired.

For more about the Algonquin Hotel and the Round Table, log on to www.thealgonquin.net.

Bar Tips: Swizzle Sticks, Stirs and Picks

When it comes to swizzle sticks, stirrers, and picks, you literally have your pick! Before your next get-together, check out the beverage section of your alcoholic beverage store as well as the supermarket, specialty shops, department stores, and catalogs for fun bar accessories.

Make your drinks extra-special by serving them with rainbow-colored long-handled plastic golf clubs or tennis racquets or seasonal swizzle sticks and stirrers. Dress up a martini by serving it in an elegant traditional glass with a silver or green glass olive-topped pick, or dress it down by serving it in a plastic glass with the olive skewered on a plain wood stick.

Discover the Vodka of Estonia

Estonia, a small country bordering the Baltic Sea and Russia, has endured centuries of foreign occupation. Now liberated, Estonia is free to share its craft with the western world. Authentic Estonian vodka, first produced in the vodka kitchens of thatch-roofed manor houses, is now available in the United States. Taste the result of 500 years experience as you raise your glass of TÜRİ in a toast.

"Tervist!"

THE LIBERATION OF THOSE WHO APPRECIATE FINE VODKA

Craftsmanship

- Estonia has a 500-year history of superb vodka craftsmanship
- TÜRİ is the finest super-premium vodka from Estonia
- Four times distilled and charcoal-filtered
- Made from Northern Europe's finest grains
- Especially clear and lustrous, the vodka is smooth and enjoyable to drink

Freedom

- Estonia's recent emergence from Soviet occupation has opened communication and trade with the West
- This authentic Estonian vodka, previously unavailable to the outside world, can now be exported to the United States
- In one short decade, Estonia has become one of the most progressive countries in Eastern Europe
- Estonian culture is gaining attention and Estonia itself was named one of the "coolest destinations on the planet"

Opportunity

- 24% of all spirits consumed are vodka, with growth driven by the super-premium vodka segment
- Imported vodka brands report an impressive 16.9% growth in the past year
- The category as a whole is expected to increase by 2.5 million cases by 2005

BACARDI® U.S.A. INC. has tapped Estonia, the last great resource of vodka-making tradition and craftsmanship, to provide a one-of-a-kind super-premium vodka for the United States.
